Dear Friends & Neighbors:

Promoting a healthy future for all /Fomentando buena salud is the slogan the Health Trust's Board of Directors adopted in its early years to express our foundation's purpose and our vision for making access to quality health care in the Pajaro Valley a privilege we all enjoy.

Since those early days, the Health Trust has funded a wide array of community nonprofit programs which have helped thousands of low-income Pajaro Valley families receive the care and tools they've needed to manage and/or prevent diabetes, gain access to medical and dental services and pursue careers in health care. We are pleased with this progress but we acknowledge there is still much work to be done.

One of the lessons learned from our last five years of local health program investment is the importance of getting an early start in teaching our children (and their families) about making healthy lifestyle choices. We know that many children living in low-income families don't get the healthy start they deserve which can lead to severe gaps in their life long health and learning.

Our grantees recognize this fact and it is clearly reflected in the ever increasing number of grant requests we receive (see pg. 4) to support health programs directed toward children and youth (0-21) who comprise more than 30 percent of our valley's population.

As we work to promote a healthy future for all, we would like to thank the dedicated local nonprofit organizations and generous community donors who help to ensure that Pajaro Valley children and youth will have a strong start in life. We know this focus on prevention and early care will lead to better life outcomes.
